Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

Document BE-A-1012655 is considered as the most relevant prior art document and discloses a screw type compressor with a pressure regulating system comprising an inlet valve connected to a single acting piston.

The problem to be solved by the invention is to simplify the mounting and dismounting of the inlet valve by avoiding the use of a spring and still to allow a reliable control of the inlet valve.

The solution to this problem consists in the use of a double-acting piston dividing the valve cylinder in two closed chambers wherein the chamber on the side turned away from the inlet valve is connected to the inlet chamber of the compressor and wherein the chamber on the side of the inlet valve is connected to the inlet chamber of the compressor and also to the non-return valve.

As these specific technical features are not disclosed in BE-A-1012655 nor in any other prior art document, the combination of all the features of independent claim 1 is neither known nor rendered obvious.

Hence independent claim 1 and all dependent claims 2-6 fulfill the requirements of Article 33 PCT regarding novelty and inventive step.

Independent claim 1 and all dependent claims 2-6 also fulfill the requirements of Article 33 PCT regarding industrial applicability.
